Recruitment of Participants for the Graduate Student Program at “2024 Forum for Graduate School Educational Reform”

We are recruiting participants for the graduate student program at the "2024 Forum for Graduate School Educational Reform " to be held at Nagoya University.

This forum, themed "PhDs, Change the Future," is designed to provide a platform where international and Japanese students from various academic fields can discuss and envision the future of graduate education in Japan. In the graduate student program, participants will share and discuss their current status, expectations, and challenges for the next 10 years in mixed teams from different fields and universities. The teams will then present proposals to "universities," "government," or "corporations" on how to realize "a better future for PhDs." After the representative group presents their proposal, the respective parties will provide their responses.

We hope you will participate in this program as an opportunity to engage with graduate students from different fields and universities across Japan, and to consider your career path after obtaining a PhD.

Please refer to the attached document for details about the program. If you wish to participate, please register using the form below by July 31st.
